DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-8 are pending in this application.

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Information Disclosure Statement

2. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on 5/26/06 and 2/28/07 are in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the information disclosure statements have been considered by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over combined teachings of Brown et al (Synthetic Communication, 1988), Weissberg et al (Synlett, 2002) and JP 05-221935.

Instant claims are drawn to a method for producing an optically active bisamidoalcohol compound represented by the formula (3) of claim 1, by reacting an optically active aminoalcohol compound represented by the formula (1) of claim 1: with a diester compound represented by the formula (2) of claim 1, and also a process of making amino alcohol starting from amino ester..

Brown et al and Weissberg et al are teaching a process of preparing bisamido alcohol by reacting an optically active amino alcohol with a diester in the presence of lithium hydroxide or lithium hydride, see Brown et al pages 1804-1805, and Weissberg et al., page 248, column 1. The difference between the reference and herein claimed process is that the references are not teaching the process of making amino alcohol.

JP'935 is cited to show that an amino alcohol can be made by reacting optically active amino acid or ester with a borohydride, See page 3 of the translation.

It would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Brown et al or Weissberg et al, by starting with amino alcohol prepared by JP'935, because JP'935 is expressly teaching the process of making amino alcohol starting from amino acid or ester in the presence of boron compound, with the reasonable expectation of achieving a successful process of obtaining a bisamidophenol, absent evidence to the contrary.
